Board wrestles with representation

The Haliburton County Board of Education will be meeting again tomorrow night to wrestle with the issue of trustee representation after discussions last Thursday ended in stalemate.

The board has been directed by the Ministry of Education to work out a new system of trustee representation that will be based on population rather than assessment. And although the ministry has provided guidelines for the board to follow, the requirements leave a surprising amount of room for the board to manoeuvre.

The basic number of trustees serving on the board will remain the unchanged following the civic election this November. However, the number of trustees representing each of the 10 municipalities could very well change.

At last Thursday's meeting, there was a general agreement that all municipalities should be represented by at least one trustee, with the exception of Cardiff and Bicroft, which have shared a trustee in the past. However, there was a good deal of disagreement when it appeared that Dysart Township would be losing one of its five trustees and

New distribution could see Minden gain one trustee at Dysart's expense

Anson, Hindon and Minden would be gaining one.

Education Director Stuart Baker explained that the present system is based on representation by assessment. This system leaves Dysart Township with five trustees, Minden with two, and Stanhope, Lutterworth, Snowdon, Monmouth, Glamorgan and Sherborne each with one. Bicroft and Cardiff share one trustee, and a fifteenth trustee, representing that area's separate school also sits on the board.

Although ministry guidelines indicate that 12 trustees would be suitable for the county, the board is given the leeway to add or subtract up to two trustees from that number. At Thursday's meeting the board passed a resolution requesting that the number of trustees remain at 14.

Put simply, representation by population in Haliburton County means each municipality should elect one trustee for every 853 of its permanent residents. Of course, in practice, it does not work out quite so neatly.

Using this formula, the number of trustees which should represent the municipalities is as follows: Dysart, 4.65; Minden, 3.18; Stanhope, 1.12; Lutterworth, .93; Snowdon, .86; Monmouth, .82; Cardiff, .66; Bicroft, .64; Glamorgan, .63; and Sherborne, .51.

Assuming that Bicroft and Monmouth continue to share one trustee and the other six smaller municipalities each get one trustee, that would leave only seven to be split among Minden and Dysart. And here is where the disagreement began and ended at Thursday's meeting.

According to the guidelines from the ministry, trustees can choose to round off fractions in either direction to the next whole number. This means that Dysart could be rounded off down to four trustees while Minden could not have fewer than three. That would leave Dysart with one less trustee, while Minden would gain one.

Dysart trustee Len Salvatori immediately objected to this. And when a show of hands was called for later, there were six other trustees who sided with him.

However, when a second informal vote was taken moments later, seven trustees indicated they would be satisfied with this shift in representation. In either case, a formal motion would have been defeated, since support from three quarters of all trustees would be needed for this to be carried.

Salvatori and the six trustees who backed his feelings are in favour of maintaining the status quo. And according to Stuart Baker, it may be

MNR has surprise visit from ministers

Victoria - Haliburton MPP John Eakins is proud of his riding and whenever possible, he likes to show it off to his colleagues at Queen's Park.

Last Tuesday it was Minister of Natural Resources Vince Kerrio who was being treated to a brief stay in the Highlands, and during his visit, he and Eakins took the opportunity to stop in at the local Natural Resources office.

Kerrio, who hails from the Niagara Falls area, says he has long-time ties with northern Ontario and especially with this area. He was visiting with Eakins at his home on Four Mile Lake and they decided to drop in at the Ministry offices in Minden and Lindsay.

"I'm interested in all the branches," said Kerrio. "An office like this is a miniature of the whole ministry." He likes to meet the personnel that work for the ministry and try to get a feel for the local concerns.

After touring the Minden office, Kerrio said he is proud of the depth of talent here. This office is very much self sufficient because its staff have such a wide variety of expertise, he said.

Minister of Natural Resources Vincent Kerrio, along with Victoria-Haliburton MPP John Eakins, made a surprise visit to the local ministry office last Tuesday morning.

Last Thursday morning at about 10 a.m., Steve Lamouri of Toronto landed this 15 pound lake trout while fishing in Boshkung Lake. Lamouri said he was using a jointed Rapala and 10 lb test Berkley line for this catch. The trout measured 36 inches in length.

Water high on the agenda

by Anne Hewitt

Water levels were high on the agenda of the Hawk

Lake/Halls Lake Property Owners Meeting July 31 as cottagers watch their lake levels dropping daily.

Several proposals have been suggested by the executive to combat the problem of low lake levels. The first involves limiting the amount of drop off in Hawk Lake to seven feet. Hawk Lake goes down the most in terms of feet as compared to any lake in the Trent-Severn reservoir system. The Trent-Severn Waterways will be running a simulation program on their computers in the near future to determine the effect this move will have on the rest of the system.

Another suggestion was to place a series of dams on the Burnt River system just south of Kinmount. The system would act as another reservoir, reducing the strain placed on Haliburton lakes. The plan is being talked about and has been recommended to government.

Other concerns at the meeting had to do with water quality. Bill

Jamieson has been conducting water quality tests on the lakes, and reported that Big Hawk Lake has maintained the same water quality since 1972, and there are no signs of increased algae growth. "We're doing a good job," he said. "People aren't putting too many soap suds in the lake."

Several motions were made concerning speed limits on the lakes, especially at the entry into Big Hawk Lake. The association is going to be looking into posting temporary speed limit signs, and eventually official speed limit signs, which they hope will aid in the enforcement.

The new executive for the association is as follows: President - Dave Bulford; Vice-President - Bill Brown, Treasurer - Charlie Robertson; Secretary - Marg Darling.

Trent-Severn Report

Slight wetting of rain shows lakes' decline

The wetter weather in the past week or two continued into this week and again made a noticeable change to the amount of water stored in the lakes of the Trent-Severn Waterway. Levels averaged 65.8% compared to 69.0% the week before in the Haliburton Lakes. This resulted in levels only about one-half per cent lower than 1987. Next week we hope to see this percentage a little higher than for the same date in 1987.

Only minimal stored water is expected to be required so a more normal decline rate may continue for another week at least. The minimum flows are being approached on the tributary rivers to conserve the reserve water.

Kawartha Lakes levels will be allowed to decline again into their ranges before heavier flows are drawn from Haliburton. Ononabee River flows continue near minimum despite the rains effects.

Trustees must accept some compromise

The Haliburton County Board of Education is faced with a dilemma. How can it ensure the Ministry of Education's directive of representation by population is met while also maintaining the current level of representation in each of the 10 municipalities?

It is plain to see that both of these goals can not be achieved. However, with a little bit of give and take, a suitable compromise can be found.

In this November's Civic Elections, 14 trustees will again be elected to the board. However, because the board has rightly chosen to shift the basis of representation from assessment to population, there is the potential for a great deal of shuffling. Fortunately for the smaller municipalities, the board's leanings are toward maintaining the present level of representation there.

A problem arises, though, when it comes to the representation for the municipalities of Dysart et al and Anson, Hindon and Minden. For the past three years, Dysart has had five trustees sitting on the board of education. Minden has had only two.

Now it appears that Dysart is entitled to 4.65 trustees, while Minden deserves 3.18. When rounded off to the nearest whole number, Dysart should have five trustees to Minden's three. If the level of representation in the smaller municipalities is to remain unchanged, Minden and Dysart can only have seven trustees among them.

The problem, then, is which of the two municipalities should give in. With a great deal of juggling of figures it may be possible for Dysart to hold onto its five trustees while knocking Minden back to two. However, this seems to violate the spirit of the ministry's aim of representation by population.

If the status quo is maintained, Dysart will have more than twice as many representatives on the board than Minden. At the same time, Dysart's population is only 50 per cent higher than Minden's.

Let's hope that tomorrow night, when the board reconvenes to deal with this issue, the rivalries between Minden and Haliburton can be set aside. Minden deserves more than three trustees, while Dysart deserves more than four. The easiest and fairest solution is to round them both downward instead of experimenting with figures until they work out in Dysart's favour.

Cheep, cheep...

To burn, or not to burn....

black 'n white

by Arthur Black

Quick Martha, pass that can of Raid! We've got an infestation of book burners on our hands! It might be funny if it wasn't so blessed depressing, but the fact is we have a group of grown, sentient human beings - a committee of the Toronto Board of Education, no less - that wants to remove the book Lord of the Flies from the classroom.

Lord of the Flies, for anyone who's been chained to their TV set for the past quarter century, is about a group of adolescent boys stranded on a tropical island after a plane crash. It's a chilling and riveting account of social unravelling. We watch the kids descend from highly structured British schoolboy formality to primitive barbarism and ritual murder. I've never met anyone who's read the book and wasn't moved by it. I read it as an adolescent and would count it easily in the top ten of all the books I read growing up. As a matter of fact, I can think of only two books that made more of an impact on me as a young reader: Tom Sawyer and Huckleberry Finn.

Both of which various school boards have also tried to ban.

The problem is racism - or perceived racism. Huckleberry Finn talks about 'the nigger Jim' - which is how he would have been referred to a century ago when the novel was written.

Despite the fact that Jim shows more class and character than anyone else in the book and despite the fact that Mark Twain exposed racists and bigots and the pain they cause in all its ugly detail, the censors' blinkered eye cannot climb over that word 'nigger'.

One wonders what they'd do at a Richard Pryor concert.

The case against Lord of the Flies is even more suspect. "Nigger" appears 210 times in Huckleberry Finn. It appears once in Lord of the Flies.

Then of course there's that other racial agitator - William Shakespeare. You and I are very unlikely to Members abandon C.H.A.C.E.

Editor:

On July 14, 1988 we, the undersigned jointly submitted our resignations to the C.H.A.C.E. Board of Directors because we found we could no longer tolerate the attitude and actions of this Board.

C.H.A.C.E. is a government funded organization consisting of two parent-child resource centres, a daycare centre and private home daycare. The purpose of C.H.A.C.E. as outlined in its Constitution is to provide services to strengthen and enhance families in Haliburton County. What began as a grass-roots organization where members were involved with the direction of the Agency has now become a very business-like machine where the Administrator and Chairman of the Board run the business and the Members needs and wants are overlooked in the name of efficiency and enrichment.

This problem surfaced when an employee at the Haliburton Resource Centre was fired in April. Being the small town that we are some members heard that this employee was being dismissed, got together a petition with a significant number of Haliburton centre users and delivered it to the Policy and Personnel Committee. What should have carried some weight to show that this employee was highly valued by the members and given consideration, was instead given virtually none. Instead the emphasis was put on having faith in the Administrator to make these decisions even though some members of the Committee believed that this decision of the Administrator was based on a personality conflict and not in the best interests of C.H.A.C.E. Knowing that there would be a strong reaction from the Members/Users the Chairman even suggested that a strategy be formed to deal with the "fallout" that would occur after this dismissal.

The fallout occurred, angry members demanded an explanation of some sort and were finally allowed to face the Board one month later at a General Meeting. Many members voiced their sorrow at losing such a valuable helper and friend at C.H.A.C.E. Many centred around the fact that as newcomers to the area this employee had helped them find a comfortable place, introduced them to new friends and was very empathetic to problems young mothers have and full of helpful suggestions having raised four children to adulthood herself. Over 40 Members and Users attended this General Meeting to say that they were very pleased with this

Smokers deserve rights

Editor:

We are a newly formed organization, attempting to secure amendments to many of the recent by-laws concerning smoking.

We are considerate, responsible, taxpaying citizens, who feel the present by-laws contravene all democratic rights and principles.

We do not wish to offend non-smokers who are truly bothered by second hand smoke, nor do we wish to argue that smoking is good for you.

We would point out that smoking is recognized as an addiction, by the World Health Organization, and as long as tobacco continues to be a legal product, smokers must be given consideration.

Toronto has recently passed a "Smoking in the Workplace" by-law, smoking has been banned on buses, and on airline flights of less than two hours. Hospitals are making patients stand outside, regardless of the weather, in order to smoke. Many government offices, where we are forced to wait for hours on end, have banned smoking.

We feel that there are many other factors contributing to many of today's ills, including automobile emissions, toxic waste dumping, acid rain, and general pollution, however, these things are ignored by the government.

Since smokers are a largely unorganized, unrepresented group in the government, they have quietly decided to place the ills of the world on our shoulders.

It is time for smokers and sympathetic non-smokers to show their leaders that they do object to what is going on.

We are presently collecting names on petitions, in order to present them to our politicians, and if you would be interested in signing, or having a petition sent to you, we would ask that you drop us a line. Don't forget to include your name and address.

We would also like to point out, just because these laws may not have affected your area yet, don't feel too secure. Many municipalities and cities are awaiting the effects, before deciding if they will follow suit.

Students overcome lag

Editor:

The teaching of french as a second language is an emotional topic among anglophone Canadians. Why? Simply: because of the animosity which has existed and continues to exist between the two language groups in Canada.

Ruth Mallory's letter to the editor in the August 1 edition of The Times is a classic example of this animosity. Throughout her letter, she makes it abundantly clear that she disapproves of the teaching of french immersion. This does not bother me as the woman is entitled to voice her opinion. However, I feel the need to reply to the letter as an important fact was omitted.

It is true, as Ruth Mallory stated, that "early french immersion distorts good english grammar" in the primary grades. This fact is documented in Bilingual Education in Ontario: A decade of Research:

"...In Kindergarten through grade 3, immersion students lag behind their peers in the regular program in some aspects of English language skills.... From grade 5 on, in those instances where there have been significant differences between immersion and comparison groups have, with occasional isolated exceptions, outperformed their comparison groups in such areas as punctuation, spelling, vocabulary and usage." (pp.52-53)

In her attempt to influence readers and, perhaps, promote her hostility, Ruth Mallory neglected to mention that immersion students overcome this initial lag in learning written english language skills.

I am not an advocate of french immersion. As a core french teacher, I prefer not to get involved in disputes with people like R. Mallory as they are often uninformed and sadly lacking in valid points. Yet, when I noticed the glaring omission of an important fact in last week's paper, I felt it was necessary to inform this newspaper's readers of the well known, established findings of the document from which I quoted.

In conclusion, french immersion did me no harm as I am very happily and very gainfully employed!

More specialized care is needed

by Anne Hewitt

Community has identified the need for relief of caregivers

A solitary figure sits in the dark hugging her knees to her chest and rocking back and forth.

As childlike as she may appear, the reality is that she is elderly and suffering from Alzheimer's disease.

Approximately 300,000 people in Ontario suffer from this strange disease. Although little is known about its causes, doctors believe it is somehow related to lesions on the brain.

In the early stages of the disease the symptoms seem mild enough. The victim becomes withdrawn and forgetful. Gradually there is an inability to reason, and a loss of orientation. Finally there is a loss of control over bodily functions.

According to Anne Ollikainen, the administrator and director of care at Extendicare in Haliburton, the deterioration process varies. "The rate of deterioration changes from person to person and within the individual," she said. "There may be days when they are functioning well, and other days when their behaviour is poor."

Many Alzheimers victims live with family members in the earlier stages of the disease. Eventually, however, it becomes impossible for the caregiver to handle the patient in a home setting. "It's like looking after a three-year-old," said Joan Stinson, whose 85-year-old father-in-law was put in Extendicare six weeks ago. "You always have to have your eye on them."

The problem now arises as to where to house these patients when it is no longer possible for them to live at home.

Statistically Haliburton County has the highest senior population per capita in Ontario. With such a large number of seniors, the number of Alzheimers victims is also large. According to Catherine Hodgson-McMahon at the Drop-In Centre in Haliburton, there are at least 30 cases of Alzheimers in the county.

While the number of cases is large, the number of beds available by comparison is quite small.

Dwight Morley, the administrator at Hyland Crest in Minden, says that although they do have at least five Alzheimers patients, they will not accept any more. He says the Alzheimers patients they do have were would have to neglect other aspects of our work."

Extendicare faces the same difficulties. In order to stop patients from wandering they have to install additional security devices. Electro-magnetic door locks bolt shut any doors that aren't being waiting list. "The length of the list varies," said Ollikainen. "Sometimes the list is lengthy, other times we're calling people and they don't want the beds."

While there is a severe lack of institutionalized care for Alzheimers patients, great strides are being taken to provide relief to both the victim and the caregiver.

Planning of a new chronic care wing for the Haliburton Hospital is underway. The fundraising for the 18-bed unit was completed in 1987, and according to Barbara Dawson, a member of the board, there will be no limits on what type of patients are admitted.

As well, Bilgees Corporation, is building a rest and retirement home called Maple Hills Manor. The complex will be located on Hodgson Drive, and will house 75 patients, with a future expansion to hold an additional 75 people. A portion of the beds will be in a separate high-security wing of the building, and will be designed specifically for Alzheimers patients. However, with a completion date of late 1989 or early 1990, immediate relief is not in sight.

Several area organizations have spotted this need for immediate relief, and are channelling their resources toward not only the patient but the caregiver.

Hyland Crest has implemented a vacation care program where caregivers can take Alzheimers patients for up to two weeks in the summer and longer in the winter. The program is designed as a coping mechanism which will allow the caregiver some time alone.

In addition to the vacation care, there is also a day care program. Hyland Crest will take Alzheimer patients for a day to allow the caregiver to run errands, and collect their thoughts.

While the program is designed to be beneficial, Morley says people aren't as aware of the service as they could be, and until caregivers start taking admitted in their early stages, before they were in need of much specialized care. "We simply are not equipped for the kind of 24-hour attention Alzheimer patients need," he said. "Some are prone to violence, and others wander. In order to deal with those patients, we used. The unit is hooked to a manual override, as well as the fire system, so that in case of an emergency all the doors are automatically opened.

"We simply are not equipped for the kind of twenty-four hour attention Alzheimer patients need," says Morley.

At the moment, Extendicare houses less than five Alzheimers patients, and there is a number of Alzheimers patients on the possible for this to be accomplished.

Clerks have last say

The ministry does provide for an alternative method of coming up with representation figures. This requires a complicated formula of designating "high population" and "low population" areas. By juggling the figures it might be possible to arrive at an "electoral quotient" of about 2.9 for Minden and 4.2 for Dysart. If this can be worked out, Minden's representation could then be rounded off down to two trustees while Dysart's is rounded up to five.

Baker had hoped that this issue could have been ironed out at last Thursday's meeting because he was to meet with the municipal clerks from Dysart, Minden and Stanhope the following day. It is these three clerks who have the ultimate authority to determine the number of trustees and how they should be distributed. Their direction, though, is to a very large extent based on the decision of the board. Input from the county clerk is also suggested.

Following Thursday's meeting, Baker said he and the three clerks would be looking into whether it is numerically possible for the trustee distribution to remain unchanged. If it does prove to be possible, a motion endorsing this will still need the support of three-quarters of the trustees.

And finally, if this support is achieved, the clerks and the ministry must then determine if the board is being reasonable.

Nine-year-old Justin Collins had his hands full when he hooked into this monster smallmouth while fishing off the family dock on Little Boshkung Lake last week. Justin's catch weighed in at an even four pounds. He was using frogs for bait and his father helped him with the landing.

Regatta was delayed but only for two hours

submitted

The annual Denna Lake Regatta was held Saturday, July 30 after being postponed for two hours due to the rain.

The decorated boats were most impressive, with first prize going to Doris Hildreth. Her paddle boat was gaily decorated in pink, with pink flamingos everywhere. We were disappointed not to see more boats out this year.

At 3 p.m. we saw the games for young and old begin and many a laugh was had at the expense of the participants.

We had a very good turn out for the barbecue at 5 p.m. Ray Downs, Steve Bodmore and Vince Bedame were the cooks and did an excellent job. Salads and desserts were supplied by the attending ladies. Pat Bradburn came again with her super Denna Lake cake.

After the barbecue, prizes were handed out to the winners of the Boat Parade, the various games and all the children came away with a surprise.

On August 13, there is to be a Buy, Sell or Trade sale at Hildreth's Beach, from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. On September 3 is the Annual Corn Roast and Barbecue.

Thanks to the K & A Restaurant, and The Beaver Theatre for gift certificates.

advantage of the program, it will not be effective.

Home support in Haliburton is planning to provide a similar relief program for caregivers. The service, called Dial-A-Friend, would allow caregivers to call when they needed someone to talk to. They are also planning a training service which would train volunteers to go into the home and visit with an Alzheimer's patient.

Perhaps more important than coming into the home and providing care for an Alzheimer's patient, however, is the kind of relief the Haliburton County Alzheimer's Support Group provides for caregivers.

On the fourth Wednesday of every month, a meeting is held at which caregivers and professionals offer their support to each other. Anne Wood, one of the co-ordinators of the group says it is a "forum for people to talk to each other."

Over 30 people were in attendance at last Wednesday's meeting, and organizers hope that as the group gets to know each other they will become an effective support mechanism.

Visitors to the Frost Centre Open House on July 28 were entertained by the Resource Rascals. Dave Goodwin, Don White, Anne Collins and Rick Keevil are all employees of the centre which provides educational programs in resource management.

Great support from friends, family

Editor:

On June 15, during a rare and happy family outing, the life of a loving son, husband and father was put in jeopardy through a tragic accident.

In the spring of this year, my son Ken had just started in the masonry business. He had two basements completed and a list of basements to do that would have kept him going all summer. Ken only knew hard work. Therefore he would work at this job six days a week and on his own home on Sunday. Since their first home was lost to fire three years ago.

Since Marilyn had her first Sunday off work from Jug City in Carnarvon, they decided to leave the work behind for a few hours and loaded the ATCs and other family members and went up to the Harburn area where they had spent happy times before. Unfortunately, shortly after they arrived, this terrible accident happened. Due to being hurt in a remote area, and the closest phone being some distance away, after an ambulance was called, he was carried to a waiting jeep, which drove them to meet the ambulance. On arrival at the Haliburton Hospital, all the necessary action was taken to keep Ken alive while being transported, with the assistance of Dr. Hartwick, by air ambulance to Sunnybrook Hospital.

Although hurt and in shock, his wife Marilyn resisted medical attention to be with her husband. As a mother and not knowing they were having these few hours together, the shock of the call from Haliburton Hospital is something I'll never forget. Immediately on arrival in Toronto an emergency operation was performed and the family was advised that the first 72 hours was the critical point. Those 72 hours seemed like forever to the family. Although being warned by my family to expect a shock when I saw my son, which I had prepared myself for, accompanied by my other son, we walked into the trauma unit only to see the form of a 150 lb man transformed to a 250 lb man, connected to every machine possible to keep him alive.

During the next 72 hours the family members stayed by the hospital. This was a shock I was not prepared for and one I will never forget. Marilyn stayed with Ken and being such a close-knit family, he has never been left alone. My trips to Sunnybrook have been on a weekly basis and the hardest part is when I leave my son behind. I have such a large lump in my throat and on my arrival home I sit and wonder through my blinding tears how I made the long trip home. My consolation is that I have still have my son alive and a family that is always there to help each other. That alone, makes me a very proud mother.

It has been eight long weeks and Ken has gradually come out of the coma. The neurosurgeon has advised Ken has suffered severe brain damage, and at this time we, nor the doctors, know what affect this will have on Ken's future.

Ken has extensive plans for his new home and work around the farm. Although Ken does not know it just yet, his brothers, relatives and friends worked together to realize most of Ken's plans. Realizing that men can't work without food, all Ken's sisters and myself prepared hearty meals for these hard working good hearted men, who are helping Ken realize his dreams. Not only is the family working toward Ken's dream, they have financed all the necessary items that were part of that dream.

Ken and Marilyn have three children, Mike 16, Lisa 12, and Trisha 7. They were being looked after by Ken's brother Gary and Cindy so Marilyn could be with Ken in the city. Although Marilyn's family lives in Sault Ste. Marie, they were able to spend time in the city with Marilyn.

Ken has now been transferred to Peterborough Civic Hospital for rehabilitation (2 West Street, second floor, room 220) and through physiotherapy at Sunnybrook, Ken is now able to move his legs and lift his head a little. However, he cannot talk yet due to the removal of a trach tube in his throat. This all seems like a bad dream but each time we visit Ken we wonder how he has managed to survive. He had the will to fight head, eye and bladder infection as well as pneumonia. He had a fractured skull and nearly every bone in his face was broken and the plastic surgeons at Sunnybrook, with the use of new technology, have done wonders for Ken. The doctors have told us that through Ken's will to survive, he has fought all the odds.

Thank you is just a small word to express our appreciation to everyone, including people not known to Ken, who have come forward with donations and have helped in so many other ways.

A benefit dance is planned for later in the fall and it is our hope that by this time Ken will know the many friends and the family who really care.

Ken's mother,
Nell Miscio

Fastball tournament goes this weekend

The Minden Rockcliffe Hustlers will host the eighth annual Rockcliffe Invitational Fastball Tournament this weekend August 12, 13 and 14.

The tournament begins Friday night at 7 p.m. in Minden when the local Hustlers tangle with the Haliburton Legion Warriors. This promises to be a real thriller as these two teams are currently tied for second place in their league with only two runs separating them in their three games this year with the last going thirteen innings before Haliburton.

innings before Haliburton squeezed out a 4-3 win.

The second game Friday night at 8:30 p.m. will feature another local favourite as the West Guilford Boys meet a team from Toronto. A third game will follow at 10 p.m.

The tournament will continue Saturday beginning at 9 a.m. in both the Minden and Haliburton ball fields.

On Sunday there will be games all morning in Haliburton and all day in Minden until a champion is crowned in the early evening.

This promises to be an action-packed weekend of fastball at its best so grab the family and come out to the ball park, grab a hot dog and watch Bernie Nicholls crank a homer, Craig Stamp (back from Calgary) perform his famous jump off the mound or the great Pete Landers once the best in the business.

Barefoot skier Karyn Cromwell demonstrates her prowess travelling at speeds upward of 38 miles per hour, she glides across the water. Karyn is three-time national champion and is headed to the world championships in Australia this November.

Bare footin'

by Anne Hewitt

Imagine spinning around on your back behind a ski boat travelling 38 miles per hour.

For Karyn Cromwell, 22, this is just part of a regular routine. The Beech Lake cottager just became Canada's women's barefoot champion for the third consecutive year. The national competition was held outside of Winnipeg last weekend, and Cromwell competed against four of the nation's top barefoot skiers.

The competition had three different parts: tricks, slalom and jumping. Each of the categories involves a high degree of skill and timing.

The tricks event consisted of a 15-second course. The skiers had to do as many tricks as they could in that 15 seconds. Each trick had a point value based on the difficulty of the stunt. Points were only awarded if the trick was completed perfectly.

In the slalom event the skier was judged on the number of times they crossed the wake in 15 seconds. The competitor could cross either forward or backward, and on one foot or two. Points were awarded depending on the difficulty of the crossing.

The jumping category involved jumping over an 18-inch platform. Skiers were judged completely on distance, and the furthest jump of three tries was recorded.

Cromwell will be competing in the world championships in Australia this November. She was one of the eight people named to the Canadian team last weekend.

In order to help her prepare for the competition, Cromwell has been training with Ron Scarpa in Florida, and plans on returning there at the end of September to continue her training. Her intense training means that she has to complete her physical education degree from Queen's University by correspondence.

To keep herself in shape during the summer, Cromwell has started a ski school called Ski Barefoot. The school, based on Beech Lake, operates during the summer months. Both barefooting and waterskiing are taught, and lessons are available on a daily, or weekly basis. Age isn't really a factor in learning how to ski. "I taught a three-year-old how to ski this summer," said Cromwell.

In addition to teaching from her cottage, Cromwell also travels to several area lodges and offers lessons to the guests and staff. A ski ride costs $10 and a lesson costs $20.

The popularity of the school is increasing along with the popularity of the sport, and Cromwell is surprised that her business has taken off so well. "The sport is really growing," she said. "Once you try it, you're addicted!"

'We service what we sell'

At the annual Minden Library Open House on Wednesday, August 3, the youngsters who took part in the summer reading program 'Rolling Readers' were presented with certificates and small prizes for taking part in the program and reading more than a set number of books over the summer holidays. Some of the children who participated in the reading program included:

Adam Saarimaki, Erin Saarimaki, Erin Hyland, Kerry Hyland, John Heffer, Matthew Heffer and Elizabeth Thompson. There were almost 40 participants in the reading program this summer.

Where will it end?

see a performance of Merchant of Venice ever again because Shakespeare says some very repugnant things about Jews.

Well here's a news flash - Shakespeare lived nearly 400 years ago. At a time when children were worked like slaves, women were chattels, you could get yourself hung for stealing a hot cross bun - and the English hated Jews just because they were Jews.

For some time now I've kept a copy of a letter to the editor written by a young Guelph, Ontario, student. She wrote in part "As a recent high school graduate who survived five Shakespearian plays, I plead with authorities to abandon any ideas of censoring Shakespeare or any other great authors studied in high school. William Shakespeare probably was a sexist anti-Semite, as were almost all men of his class and day. But if we do not end this absurd notion of censorship right now, where will it end?"

I don't know where it'll end, but I know what direction we're headed. Ten of the books most frequently banned by 'educators' in the USA are: The Catcher in the Rye; Of Mice and Men, 1984, Brave New World, Slaughterhouse-Five, Black Like Me,

One Flew Over The Cuckoo's Nest and Deliverance.

Oh yes, and of course Lord of the Flies and Huckleberry Finn.

I can't think of a list of ten books I'd rather have my kids read.

That's the direction we're headed. Maybe someday we get as far as the educator in Leeds, England who is rewriting our fairy tales to make them more suitable. The Three Bears have been changed to The Three Frogs, so as not to scare little tots. And Goldilocks has been changed to Jackie because it's inappropriate to "glorify a little white girl with blonde hair."

The Leeds educator is not alone. In the state schools of Maryland, Tom Sawyer is no longer allowed to say 'Honest Injun'. He just says 'Honest'. And in California an anti-junk-food lobby has seen to it that schoolbooks censor references to ice cream, cake or pie.

A famous man once wrote: "False views do little harm, for everyone takes a salutary pleasure in proving their falseness; and when this is done, one path towards error is closed and the road to truth is often opened."

The writer knew a thing or two about censorship. His name was Charles Darwin.

Regatta draws record crowd

submitted by Bob Hill

The Gull Lake Cottagers Association's 64th Annual Regatta was held on Saturday, July 30 at University Bay with a record turnout.

It was a very hot and humid day with thunderstorms threatening from the beginning, but that didn't deter the enthusiasm.

The Windsurfing Race got underway at 11 a.m. with very strong winds and the first place trophy was taken home by Ross Smith with Chris Birkett and John Ingall taking second and third place respectively. Also starting at 11 a.m. were a series of field events for children 10 years old and younger, organized by Rick and Gwen Emery. A record 70 children participated and every child won!

The waterfront swimming and canoeing events got underway at noon, with a record number of enthusiastic entrants fuelled by delicious hot dogs and snacks prepared by Jack and Darla Sward and Iris Engerer and numerous other volunteers.

The Bedlington Trophy is awarded to the best overall entrant in the swimming and canoeing events 16 and under. The trophy was donated in 1924 by the late Mrs. W. A. Bedlington, and was presented by her daughter Mrs. Lyndsie Lewis to the winner, Kelly Williams. The runner up was Franny Jewett with Chris Barrett placing third.

The Treadgold Trophy is awarded to the best overall entrant in the swimming and canoeing events 12 and under. Mr. Don Treadgold presented the trophy to the winner Catherine Hill. Andrew Kirk and Keith Harrison tied for second, with Robbie Barrett coming third.

The top canoeist over 17 accumulating the most points is awarded the Minto Trophy. This year there was a tie between Marilyn Hagerman and Paul Sward.

The Mixed Terrain Race was won by the team of Jim Heaps (running), Wendy Burchell (swimming) and Alex Litwin (canoeing).

The two Crerar paddles awarded to the best boy and girl canoeist under 16 were won by Franny Jewett and Chris Barrett, presented by Tania Crerar.

The three Earl paddles awarded to the best gun-whale entrant 12 and under were won by Keith Harrison; the best 16 and under girl Kelly Williams and the best 16 and under boy Chris Barrett. The Earl paddles were presented by Tim Sharpe, Mike Earl's cousin.

The two Sharpe paddles were presented by Tim Sharpe to the best girl and boy under 12 in the singles canoe event, and were won by Heather Crerar and Kevin Murdock.

The waterfront events went off without a hitch except for a slight delay due to rain and lightning, but the skies soon cleared and allowed all events to finish in beautiful sunshine.

For the second year, the now popular Grandparent's Events were organized by Chuck Sprogis and consisted of nail driving for the Grandmas, patch sewing for the Grandpas and egg on a spoon for the "team".

The third annual Fishing Derby was held on July 16 with trophies for most rock bass (119!) and largest lake trout (1 lb.) awarded to Bo Richardson at the Regatta.

The Open Sailing races were held on July 23 but had to be cancelled due to lack of wind. The race instead was held on July 24 with light winds and very heavy rain shortly after the start. The first place trophy was awarded to Ross Smith and Patrick Cole at the Regatta, with Bill Left Jr. and Tim Sharpe receiving medallions for second and third respectively.

Prizes for races and the raffle were generously donated by merchants from Minden and beyond, and a special "thank you" appears in today's paper.

The Association's President, Peter Elmslie, who did an outstanding job as event co-ordinator and announcer, and Bob Hill, this year's Regatta Commodore, wish to extend a wholehearted thanks to Don Wilson (Vice-Commodore and race starter), Bill Koopman (scoring), Joanne Hill and Margo Sprogis for looking after the many ribbons and prizes for winners, Barb Flaherty and Vicky McLaren who sold a record number of raffle tickets, Jim and Gail Sward who spent many hours visiting merchants, Faith and Paul Aggatt for the fine co-operation on the use of the University Bay facilities, and the many others who contributed their time, energy and talents to a very successful 64th Annual Regatta.

ALWAYS REMEMBER — SAFETY FIRST!

Twice in as many weeks I have had the frightening experience of encountering other boaters parading around Lake Kashagawigamog at night with no lights on. Customers have told me this idiotic behaviour is not confined to this body of water. A collision at speed between boats will have fatal consequences. Given the increasing popularity of boats in general, and night boating in particular, a fatal accident becomes not just possible, but inevitable. No rational person, knowing the risks, would invite such a catastrophe by going "lightless" so please - avoid disaster - use your lights!

Bark Lake Camp a buzz with activity

It's a typical morning at the Ontario Camp Leadership Centre at Bark Lake. Although it's just 7:30 a.m., the place is buzzing with activity.

The Leaders in Training (LITs) are already up, designing their outdoor lesson plans and program options. Their schedule is always full as they lead activities until sunset. In the early evening it's more of the same until lights out. The next day, it starts all over again.

The LITs are clearly here for a purpose. They've come from across Ontario — more than 700 each year — to learn the special leadership and recreation skills that will let them lead other eager campers.

And now, thanks to the construction of the new Bark Lake Administration Centre, which officially opened July 31, Bark Lake will be able to accommodate even more camp leaders.

Nestled in the beautiful Haliburton Highlands, the Bark Lake Centre, Ontario's camping and outdoor recreation training facility, celebrates its 40th anniversary this summer.

Special guests and the general public attended the afternoon opening festivities and toured the new administration centre. They were treated to sailing, canoeing, kayaking, crafts and archery demonstrations. Environmental programs were also featured.

Located in Irondale just off Highway 503, the Bark

Lake Centre provides individuals and organizations with the opportunity for personal development in outdoor education and recreation.

It is administered by the Recreation Branch of the Ontario Ministry of Tourism and Recreation.

When the Bark Lake Centre first opened its doors in the summer of 1948, it was strictly a warm weather operation with programs offered during the spring and summer months.

"The old administration building was no longer adequate for the types of year-round programs that we are hoping to run," camp manager Rob Heming explains.

Built at a cost of $225,000 and funded jointly by the Ministry of Tourism and Recreation and the Ministry of Government Services, the building will house the organization's administrative offices, board room and tuck shop. The modern-day log cabin building, designed by the Ministry of Government Services, is modelled in the French Colonial style. It is accessible to the physically challenged.

The Bark Lake Centre offers specialty programs in three categories: skills development, leadership development and adult outdoor skills. It is open only to Ontario residents who have been sponsored by a recreation organization.

Paddling through the calm waters of Bark Lake, participants in the fortieth anniversary program at the Ontario Leadership Camp presented a tableau representing the early days of Canadian history. The camp is located on Highway 503, near Irondale.

A very warm dry month, great for holidays but hard on gardens and lawns, etc.

Remember last July only 1.2 degrees C difference between the two months, this July was warmer.

Very little rain, there was near half an inch of rain on July 14 and a good rain, 3/4 of an inch, on July 22, otherwise a few showers. Five days with thunderstorms but no severe storms during the month.

River water is very warm, great swimming, temperature within one degree of last July.

Trivia: July and August 1955 were the warmest two months in record across Ontario. June, July and August in 1949 was the warmest summer on record.

Acid rain report

The following report on precipitation events was recorded at the Ministry of Environment acid rain testing laboratory in Dorset and compiled by Environment Canada.

The following report covers the period of July 24 - 30.

- July 24 - 7 mm, 4.6 pH. from central Quebec and central Ontario.

- July 25 - 1 mm rain, 4.0 pH from Michigan, Lake Huron and central Ontario.

Environmental damage is usually observed in sensitive areas regularly receiving precipitation with pH less than 4.7. Readings of 4.0 pH or less are considered dangerous. The lower the reading, the more acidic the precipitation.

Bark Lake celebrates 40th anniversary

Students improve their skills in campcraft, orienteering, kayaking, archery, waterfront activities, sailing, rock climbing and campfires.

Those interested in honing their leadership talents study effective communication skills, teaching methodology, goal and value setting, group process skills and evaluation techniques, among others. Courses range from 11 to 18 days.

Skills and leadership courses are also offered for many youth-affiliated groups, such as the Girl Guides, Boy Scouts, outdoor education centres and school boards. There is also a leadership program for Franco-Ontarians.

And the popular SABLE (Senior Adult Bark Lake Experience) program returns this fall. About 100 older adults, who work with provincial seniors' organizations, are scheduled to take part in this year's program. The SABLE program is in its fourth year.

"It's not every day a facility celebrates its 40th anniversary," said Ontario

Minister of Tourism and Recreation Hugh P. O'Neil. "The Bark Lake Centre has an outstanding track record and we're very proud of its accomplishments. We're confident the next 40 years will be just as fruitful."

The anniversary bash was just one item on the Bark Lake social agenda this year. In the fall, former staff and their families are invited to spend the weekend at Bark Lake and reacquaint themselves with former staff and friends.

"We're going to be very busy up here," Mr. Heming says.

The property where the Bark Lake Leadership Centre is now located has many different people walk along its shores over the past century. The transformation of this former wilderness area into a leadership camp was detailed in a series of mini skits put on by the Leaders in Training and the staff of the camp. On July 29, Bark Lake was celebrating its 40th anniversary. It was also celebrating the opening of a new administration building. This fall there will be a special weekend when former staff and friends will be invited.

unwelcome visitors at other Board meetings when the Chairman "called" Committee of the Whole (without a vote) to force them to leave. We, as a minority on this Board were often called unprofessional and in conflict of interest because we genuinely care about the grievances the membership have brought to us and a belief that the future of C.H.A.C.E. should be shaped by the members - isn't that what it's here for, the members and users?? But members on this Board have said that "we" and the Ministry of Community and Social Services are laughing at this current situation. Many families are staying away from the Haliburton Centre while the Board maintains that all of this will just blow over.

Over the last three months there have been many things going on with the Board that are too numerous to get into at present. But basically we found it intolerable to work with a system where the rules keep changing, where constitutional and policy violations are pointed out and nothing is done about it and where there is little hope that the Board will change its attitude toward the Members. It seems that the Board has forgotten its purpose is to serve the needs of the Membership and has become an Oligarchy dictating its values.

This letter has been written to inform the taxpayers and C.H.A.C.E. Members and Users of some of the reasons for our resignation with the hope that C.H.A.C.E. will become a service to this community if enough voices are heard.

A beautiful sunny day was the setting for a gorgeous old fashioned wedding solemnized in Zion United Church, Carnarvon on Saturday, June 18, 1988, at 4:00 p.m., when Karen Thomas, daughter of Allen and Cathy Thomas of Carnarvon and Danny Stiver, son of Mary Stiver of Hall's Lake exchanged marriage vows.

The bride, her parents and attendants arrived at the church by horse-drawn wagon. The beautiful Belgian horses were driven by owner Harvey McIntosh of Minden.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Ed Moll, using the wedding vows that Karen's grandparents Vera and Archie Jones used for their wedding 55 years ago.

The bride was accompanied down the aisle by her father and given in marriage by both parents.

The bride looked exquisite in a beautiful old-fashioned Victorian style white lace dress, with a white satin belt and bow. The matching hat had a full veil. Her bouquet was white miniature roses, carnations, baby's breath and a white satin box. She was attended by her maid of honour Susan Peel of Toronto, dressed in a deep dusty rose sheened satin and lace dress with full skirt and matching hat.

The bridesmaids Lisa Race of Niagara Falls, Sandra Bannon of Beech River, Susan Thomas of Carnarvon, and Christine Cullen of Oshawa, all wore frost rose sheened satin and lace dresses with full skirts and matching hats. All her attendants carried white parasols decorated with baby bud roses, baby's breath and ribbon.

The groom looked dashing in a white tuxedo and tails with white bow tie and a white rose boutonniere, top hat, gloves and carried a white cane. He was attended by his best man Brian Rennie of Carnarvon also wearing a white tuxedo and tails with a deep dusty rose bow tie and boutonniere, white top hat, gloves and white cane. The ushers, Robert (Miffen) Conacher of North Shore Road, Mike Sims of Burlington, Brian Cullen of Oshawa, and Keith Thomas of Carnarvon, all wore pale grey tuxedos and tails with frost rose bow ties and boutonnieres, grey top hats, white gloves and carried black canes.

The flower girl, Amanda Cullen, wore a long white satin dress with full ruffled skirt, lace sleeves and white satin bows. She carried a white parasol decorated with pink rose buds, baby's breath and lace ribbon.

She was accompanied by her brother, Bradley Cullen, the ring bearer. He wore a white tuxedo and tails complete with white bow tie, boutonniere, top hat and gloves. He carried the wedding rings on a white heart shaped satin cushion.

The maid of honour sang two lovely songs during the ceremony, Always and Our Love in Christ, accompanied by Melissa Stephenson on the organ.

After the ceremony the wedding party left the church on the horse drawn wagon for a trip around Carnarvon and to the lovely garden of Tony and Ruth Samarillo's for pictures.

A reception dinner and dance followed the wedding at the Stanhope Firefighter's Hall with the out of town guests from Niagara Falls, Toronto, Stouffville, Barrie, Unionville, St. Catharines, Burlington, Sturgeon Falls, Peterborough and Kenora.

The happy couple will reside in Carnarvon.

Balanced maritime force is needed

by Bill Scott, M.P.

Canada, by virtue of its geography, maritime economic interests and collective defence agreements, requires a balanced and versatile maritime force consisting of surface ships, aircraft and submarines. The 1987 defence White Paper reaffirmed this policy by stating that no single system is capable of handling the range of maritime requirements by itself. Aircraft, ships and submarines all have unique advantages which must be combined so that their strengths reinforce each other to produce a balanced and effective force.

Integral components of a balanced maritime force are maritime coastal defence forces, which include coastal surveillance vessels and mine countermeasure vessels.

The existing coastal defence resources, operated mainly by the Naval Reserve, consist of various minor war vessels plagued by poor seakeeping qualities and obsolete equipment. They are also incapable of conducting mine countermeasure activities. The only mine countermeasure capability in Canada today rests with a few Regular Force clearance drivers, limited to shallow water operations.

Studies within the Department of National Defence have concluded that the task of clearing mines from the two vital military ports of Halifax and Esquimalt, B.C. would require a minimum of 12 mine countermeasure vessels.

These vessels will provide capabilities to conduct effective coastal defence operations and training in times of peace. This will include surveillance operations and the detection, identification and neutralization of mines in our vital military and commercial ports. In times of crisis, they will also provide the foundation to expand the coastal defence force, using similar types of vessels taken up from trade. They will be operated by the Naval Reserve which, under Canada's new defence policy, was assigned as one of its two primary tasks, mine countermeasures.

It is expected the new vessels will be 50 to 60 metres in length, with a displacement of about 1,000 tonnes. They will be fitted with a mechanical mine-sweeping system for use in deep water, and a remote-control mine-hunting system to counter the newer generation of mines. The ships will also be fitted with the 40 mm Bofors gun and an effective command, control and communication system. As well, the project will provide two minesweeping training systems, exercise mines and diving equipment.

It is intended to operate these vessels on the east and west coasts, and during the summer, on the Great Lakes and the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

Total project cost is expected to be approximately $750 million, including monies for funded project definition, and $11 million for early procurement of training equipment.

The Government will ensure considerable Canadian participation in this project. Only Canadian companies will be considered for definition work as prime contractor. The vessels will be designed and built in Canada, providing considerable industrial benefits to major regions of the country.

The project will create about 2,400 person-years of employment and will enhance the growth and international competitiveness of Canadian industry.

It will also be an important stimulus to the Canadian shipbuilding industry and to Canadian sub-sea technology involved in mine countermeasure systems.

What was it like?

Rebecca Wilson won second place in the Heritage Essay contest sponsored by the Minden County Town Museum Committee with this essay entitled "What was it like?"

by Rebecca Wilson

Grandma, what was it like when you were young?"

"It was a lot different than now."

"Tell me about it please."

"Well, I started school when I was five. In the morning we got up at 7:00 to go to school. We walked about two miles. In the winter, our dad sometimes gave us a ride in our sleigh. Our school was a small two room school house."

"Grandma what subjects did you take?"

"We took the three R's: readin', ritin' an' 'rithmetic. Later on we took Geography and History. I really enjoyed school. We had double seats. There were about 35 kids in each classroom. We wore skirts and shirts, the boys wore suits."

"Wasn't that uncomfortable?"

"Not really, we were used to it."

"Did you get an allowance?"

"Yes I was very lucky. In those days I got five cents a week."

"Did you have a microwave?"

"Oh, no! We didn't even have an electric stove. We did have a woodstove and oil lamps. We had no electricity and we heated our house with the woodstove and our fireplaces."

"What did you do for fun?"

"We had parties and went to the movies. At the parties we listened to the phonograph and records."

"What was the town like?"

"It was very different than it is now. I have some pictures if you would like to see them."

"Oh yes please."

"I'll get them."

* * * * *

"Here's one of the bridge."

"It really looked like that?"

"Yes that was the old bridge. They put up the new one in 1976. They put the new one up because the old one could not take all the wear and tear."

"What's this one?"

"Oh that's one of the Main Street after the fire of 1942. It was just the one side that was burnt to ashes. That fire was pretty awful all right. It started in Brintnell's Bakery and went to Dr. S. Hartle's General Store, Philip Taylor's Garage, the post office, Marry Lott's Restaurant, Herb McKelvin's house, the Echo office, James Smith's barber shop and the gift shop."

"What's this?"

"It looks like a town right out of Gunsmoke or Bonanza."

"Hee, hee, that's about the time the picture was taken."

"Grandma do you think things were better then than now?"

"In some ways yes and other ways no. There are a lot of electrical conveniences now that are a great help and people live longer. Then again, back when I was a kid I didn't have to worry about nuclear war or acid rain. I guess it all depends on how you look at it."

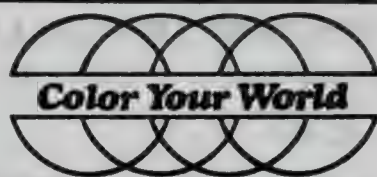

"Uh, oh."

"What's the matter Jason?"

"I hadn't realized how late it was getting. Mom's gonna be worried. I have to go. Can I come back tomorrow and listen to some more stories?"

"Of course you are always welcome here. Good-bye."

"Good-bye Grandma."

Hi Kids!
Here is another puzzle for you with a word list. Look in the diagram of letters for the words given in the list. Find them by reading up, down, forward, backward and diagonally. They are all in a straight line and do not skip letters. Circle the words in the diagram and cross it off the list.
It's as easy as that. Have fun!

THE TIMES Page 27

senior league

by Pearl Lyle

Hello Readers:

It's really too hot to write but orders are going ahead!

Rev. Burgess had the Sunday evening service and Tuesday morning Rev. Elliott of Minden Anglican Church had a communion service.

We are glad to have Linda back; we sure missed her.

Saturday Winnie Barnum's son Terry took her out for lunch and a drive, later her sister and husband May and Roy Cameron of Peterborough called on her for a little while. Alice Todd spent the weekend at Richmond Hill for a family reunion. There were about 40 people present and everyone reported a good time.

I was able to go out for lunch on Tuesday with my daughter Anna and a drive after. I had my grandson Rob Lyle and his wife July and son Andy and Ryan of North Bay to see me on Sunday.

Dora Dawson has been visiting friends this past week. Ada Turrall's guests last week were Mr. and Mrs. J. Hislop of Toronto, Mr. and Mrs. J. Harrison, of Peterborough and Mrs. Edna Richardson of Peterborough.

The ladies from Kennisis Lake brought the afternoon tea on Thursday. It was real nice and everyone enjoyed it very much.

Till next week.

Shelter allowance changes

by John Eakins

The Ministry of Community and Social Services has taken a further step toward bringing equity and fairness into the calculation of shelter subsidies for recipients of social assistance.

As of September 1, 1988, utility costs that are paid separately from rent will be included in the definition of shelter costs. This change will raise the payment levels of most social assistance recipients who are now paying their own utility costs.

I firmly believe that this is a step toward a better system for all social assistance recipients in Ontario. About 40,000 individuals and families receiving General Welfare Assistance and Family Benefits will see increases in their social assistance payments. The average benefit is expected to be about $45 per month. At the present time, utility costs that are included in a social assistance client's rent are recognized as part of the overall shelter costs of the client. However, utility costs that are paid directly to the client are not included as shelter costs.

For this initiative, utilities are being defined as the cost of any energy source, such as electricity or gas, used for normal household purposes, except for heating the dwelling. Heating costs are already included in the calculation of benefits. Utilities also include the cost of water.

This year's provincial budget provided the Ministry of Community and Social Services with $20 million annually to fund this initiative. Under the Canada Assistance Plan, 50 per cent of the full costs of the initiative will be contributed by the federal government. Municipalities are responsible for 20 per cent of the cost of allowances paid through the General Welfare Assistance Program.

To ensure that this fairer way of dealing with utility costs is administered efficiently, clients' utility costs will be set at pre-established amounts that vary with family size.
